

OVER TEN THOUSAND FOR CYCLONE RELIEF

COUNTY COMMITTEE HAS COMPLETED WORK AND GIVES REPORT OF FUNDS EXPENDED.

SEVENTY HOMES AIDED

Entire $10,719.15 Has Been Given to Help Sufferers—Janesville Donated $5,900.18—Total $2,749.30.

The committee appointed by the County Board of Supervisors to collect and distribute funds and supplies for the cyclone sufferers, has completed its work and is now ready to report. The response for money and clothing was so generous that seventy families in the storm district have been helped.

A record of what these families owned, what they owed, the amount of loss and the amount of insurance if any, has been carefully compiled, and distribution made with reference to needs, based on this kind of information.

No account has been kept of the clothing and supplies, but the district has been well supplied, and this class of gifts has been thoroughly appreciated.

The money contributed has been acknowledged through the columns of the Gazette, as far as received, and turned over to the treasurer, Wm. Bladen. Summarized, these donations are as follows:

City of Janesville, including Mrs. Day's entertainment, $5,900.18
City of Beloit, 2,749.30
Kewanee, Elgin, Clinton and surrounding towns, 2,669.67

Total, $10,719.15

The following report which follows shows how this money was expended. It will be noticed that none of it was used for expenses, as services and automobiles were donated and the committee paid its own expenses while traveling over the district. The money all went to the sufferers, and every case was passed on by from five to ten members of the committee. To the people who so generously aided in this work the committee desires to say thank you.

H. F. BLADEN, Secretary.

MORSE TO SAIL FOR GERMANY TOMORROW

May Not Wait For Ten Days as First Planned—No Information Given As to Financier's Condition.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Feb. 9.—Not a word could be obtained today at the apartments in W. 58th street where Charles W. Morse, the pardoned convict banker, is recuperating preparatory to a trip to Lind-Sagham, Germany. Reports were current that Morse would sail tomorrow perhaps on the Oceano having decided it was best to start for Europe at once instead of remaining here for a week or ten days as he first purposed to do.

Appleton Basketball Team Wins Fourth Game of Series—Fifth to Be on Neutral Floor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Appleton, Wis., Feb. 9.—The Ask-Weltinowell basketball team defeated Company 1 of Neenah last night, scoring to four. This was the fourth game of a series between the two teams, Company 1 winning the first two after the games and the local team taking the last two. The fifth game will be played on neutral floor.

POLITICIANS PLAN TO REPAIR FENCES DURING NEXT WEEK

Lincoln Day Celebrations Will Give Opportunity for Candidates to Appear Before Race.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—Politics are in the air for the coming week. In fact, the next few days will be the busiest ones that the politicians have experienced in a long time. The Lincoln Day celebrations will be a cause for much activity on the part of the Republican leaders, particularly those of oratorical ability.

President Taft will go to Newark to take part in the Lincoln celebration in that city Monday and in the evening he is scheduled to speak in New York city. The same night Attorney General Wickersham addresses a republican banquet in Milwaukee. Senator Townsend of Michigan will speak in Detroit. Representative McCall of Massachusetts and several other republicans will be heard in Minneapolis, and Representative Hinds of Maine will be the chief orator at a gathering of the clubs in Portland, Maine.

Secretary of the Treasury MacVane will add to the safety of the republican situation by making a speech to the republicans of Michigan with "What is a Progress?" as his topic. The speech will be delivered Tuesday night at the annual dinner of the Zach Chandler Club at Lansing.

Meeting at Albion.

Another Michigan banquet at which republican oratory will be on tap will be that of the Calhoun-Lincoln Club at Albion. Governor Osborn will be the chief figure, with Congressman J. M. C. Smith of Michigan, C. H. Sloan of Nebraska and Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming as the other speakers. The personnel of the speakers list indicates that many good words will be spoken for Theodore Roosevelt before the evening is over.

A Lincoln Day Banquet to be given in St. Louis by the Association of Young Republicans of Missouri will have as speakers Governor Deussen of Illinois and Governor Hadley of Missouri.

In Hoosier State.

Republicans of the Hoosier State will turn their eyes toward New-Castle, where a thousand or more of the party leaders are expected to gather for the annual meeting and banquet of the Indiana Lincoln League.

In Colorado, also, the anniversary of the birth of Lincoln promises to be a banner day for the republican party. Republican leaders of all factions have been invited to meet in Denver on that day for a grand "harmony" conference. The state convention will be held by the republican editors, and the gathering will close with a Lincoln banquet at which former Senator Beveridge of Indiana is to be the star speaker.

Georgia Convention.

Add to the Lincoln day jubilation the chief event of the week on the republican calendar will be the state convention of Georgia republicans, which is to meet in Atlanta Wednesday to name delegates to the national convention at Chicago. Recent reports from the South give evidence of considerable activity, on the part of Roosevelt adherents in Georgia and it is reported that they will make an effort to have a Roosevelt man elected chairman of the state committee.

The Taft people, however, do not appear worried over the situation and the general opinion is that about the best that the Roosevelt followers can hope for is an untried delegation to Chicago. A solid Taft delegation is the prediction of the President's friends.

Wilson in Chicago.

On the democratic side, the most interesting news of the week probably will be furnished by Woodrow Wilson, who will make a hurried trip to Chicago to deliver one or two addresses on Lincoln day and to confer with some of the prominent democrats in the West. Also of interest will be the democratic presidential primary at St. Louis to select 216 delegates to the democratic state convention at Joplin. The Joplin convention will determine whether former Governor Joseph W. Folk or Speaker Champ Clark shall have the Missouri endorsement for President.

LARGE SUM STOLEN BY POSTAL CLERKS

Registered Packages of Currency, $30,000 in All, Taken at Santiago de Cuba.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Santiago de Cuba, Feb. 9.—Two registered packages containing $30,000 consigned to the Spanish bank at Havana, have disappeared from the postoffice. It is supposed they were stolen by two postal clerks who are believed to have embarked on board ship at Antilla for Jamaica.

NORTHEAST WISCONSIN TEACHERS IN MEETING

Oshkosh, Wis., Feb. 9.—Scores of teachers are here attending the twenty-first annual meeting of the Northeast Wisconsin Teachers' Association. Every city and town in the territory covered by the association is represented, and it is said to be the largest convention ever held by the association. E. H. Desman of Neenah is presiding over the sessions, which will last two days. A number of educators of wide prominence are on the program.

HONDURAS AND U. S. AUTHORITIES CLASH; GOVERNOR PROTESTS

United States Marines Enforce Government Decree About Valentine Company, and Honduras Governor Objects.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Puerto Cortez, Honduras, Feb. 9.—Delayed in transmission. There has been a clash between United States authorities and Honduras officials over the enforcement of a government decree directing representatives of W. S. Valentine to surrender to the government authorities the railroad, wharf and other properties held under lease by the Valentine syndicate. Seventy-five marines from the United States gun boat "Petrel" landed and seized the wharf and railroad. Honduras troops were then ordered to stop all trains. The governor has filed a protest.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The state department is watching developments in the dispute between the Honduras government and representatives of the Valentine syndicate. An arrangement for the adjustment of the dispute between the concessioners and the Honduras government was provided for in a contract held by the Morgan syndicate, but this has just been abandoned and the issue remains open.

WOMEN OF APPLETON COOL ON SUFFRAGE

Sylvia Pankhurst and Centrice Forbes. Robertson, English Suffragists, Speak to Almost Empty Halls.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Appleton, Feb. 9.—Sylvia Pankhurst, the noted suffragette, is gone to the core. In fact, a woman of her nerve might well be a real office-holder. She did something last night which took more nerve than her action when she was thrown into the English prison for her activity in the cause. When she appeared at the Appleton theatre last night to deliver a lecture on "Woman's Suffrage and English Prisoners," there were just four women present, and her first remark was, "Please move down to the front."

Later the audience was increased twenty per cent for one man entered. Still, she gave her lecture to her audience of five and spoke for over an hour on "Woman's Rights."

Naturally she was much disappointed with the lack of enthusiasm displayed by the Appleton women, but was game enough to go through with her lecture. This is the second attempt in a week to awaken interest in woman's suffrage. Monday night Miss Centrice Forbes Robertson was here to deliver an address but there were only about six persons present and who refused to give her address.

TWO RIVERS MAN IS MISSING FROM HOME

Chicago Police Ordered to Investigate Disappearance of Leo Van Dredt—Foul Play Feared.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Feb. 9.—The police were asked today to investigate the disappearance of Leo Van Dredt, a wealthy fish merchant of Two Rivers, Wis., who has been missing from the home of his brother-in-law Wm. Vosbard, here since last Wednesday morning. Vosbard told the police that he feared Van Dredt had been followed to Chicago from Two Rivers, and vanished for his money. Van Dredt carried $250 in cash when he left the Vosbard home.

MORE DEVELOPMENTS IN CRUSADE ON VICE

Four Wausau Saloonkeepers and Bartender Arrested on Charge of Selling Liquor to Young Girls.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Wausau, Wis., Feb. 9.—Today brought more developments as the result of the crusade against alleged vice in this city. Four saloonkeepers and one bartender were arrested yesterday for selling liquor to young girls. Today, Mrs. Rosa Halverson, Mrs. Katherine Chester and Elmer Halverson were arrested for giving liquor to minor girls. Bonds were given in all cases. Other arrests are promised.

G. O. P. LEADERS PLAN BANQUET AT WASHINGTON

Six Hundred Prominent Men of Party Will Meet at New Willard Hotel Tomorrow Night.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—The arrangements completed for the annual banquet of the League of Republican State Clubs at the New Willard Hotel tomorrow night give promise of one of the most notable affairs of the kind that the capital has seen this winter. Six hundred prominent party leaders will attend the function. President Taft will be present during the evening, and addresses will be delivered by Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana, Governor Hadley of Missouri, Governor Goldthorpe of Maryland, John Hays Hammond of Massachusetts, Jay Hedges of New York, D. D. Woodmansee of Ohio and J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania.

M'KINLEY BEGINS TAFT'S CAMPAIGN IN CHICAGO TODAY

Active Work for Re-Nomination of President Taft Begun in Chicago by William McKinley.

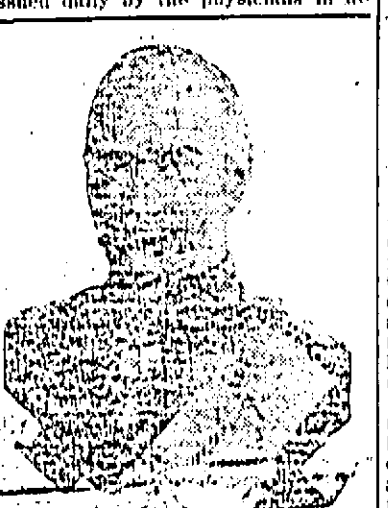

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Feb. 9.—Active work for the re-nomination and re-election of President Taft, aside from that done at the White House, began here today when Representative William McKinley, of Illinois, chairman of the republican congressional committee, took up his new duties as manager of the Taft campaign.

Although republican leaders said today that it was too early to talk about the plans of campaign until after the Chicago convention, many friends of Mr. McKinley were of the opinion that if President Taft is re-nominated, Mr. McKinley will be his choice for chairman of the republican national committee. Mr. McKinley would probably be acceptable to all the old time party leaders. Some of these leaders have objected to postmaster general Hitchcock and secretary of the President, Hilks, both prominently mentioned heretofore for national chairman.

GERMANY ENTERTAINS ENGLISH SECRETARY

Emperor and Empress Give Luncheon in Honor of Viscount Haldane—May Relieve Anglo-German Tension.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Berlin, Feb. 9.—The German emperor and empress today gave a luncheon at the imperial palace in honor of Viscount Haldane, the British secretary of state for war. It is now generally admitted that one of the aims of viscount Haldane's visit to Germany is to relieve the tension which has affected Anglo-German relations for some time past. Nothing definite as to the nature of the discussion between British statesman and his German conferees has become known.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION DOES GREAT DAMAGE

Attempt to Thaw Explosive Wrecks Two Houses, Rips up Gas and Oil Pipes and Severely Wounds Two Men.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Waynesburg, Pa., Feb. 9.—Thirty sticks of dynamite which a workman was trying to thaw at a blacksmith's forge, exploded at Sprague last night, ten miles from here, severely injuring two men, shattering two houses, breaching telegraph lines and ripping up gas and oil lines. One of the buildings disappeared in a cloud of smoke and splinters and the oil and gas from the severed pipe line caught fire.

WILL ISSUE PATENTS TO ONEIDA INDIANS

All Recommended as Competent to Care For Their Own Affairs. Will Receive Them—Settlement Opening.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Green Bay, Feb. 9.—The Indian office has announced its purpose to issue patents in fee to all Oneida Indians who may be recommended competent to care for their own affairs. Of the sixty-five thousand acres of the original reservation about 20,000 acres are still held under trust patents. About one-third of this land belongs to the estate and the remaining two-thirds to the original allottees. This probably will result in opening to white settlers a big portion of the lands now held by the Oneidas. The office of this office is to ascertain by about five years the trust period of twenty-five years which would otherwise expire in 1917.

HEALTH DAY OBSERVED IN NEW HAMPSHIRE TODAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Concord, N. H., Feb. 9.—Pursuant to a proclamation issued by Governor Bass today was set aside for the observance of "Health Day" throughout New Hampshire. The observance is believed to be the first of its kind to be held in any part of the country. In all the public schools the pupils were given instruction relative to preventable diseases, particularly those of the winter season, and selected speakers told of the year cost of the malnutrition to the nation. The state and the local boards of health, women's clubs and other organizations throughout the state co-operated in the observance of the day.

Christian Endeavorers Meet

Salem, Ore., Feb. 9.—Full of enthusiasm for a successful meeting, several hundred members of the Society of Christian Endeavor gathered here today for the annual convention of their state organization. Leading features of the program at the opening sessions this afternoon were addresses by C. Everett Baker, president of the state society, and Dr. Levy T. Pennington, president of Pacific College. The convention will continue over Saturday and Sunday.

STEEL MEN PROTEST AT CHANGE IN DUTY BEFORE COMMITTEE

Declars They Would Be Driven Out of Business by New Schedule.—Other Washington News.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Feb. 9.—The senate finance committee today continued its hearing on the iron and steel bill. H. W. Schloss of New York, representing the manufacturers of brand, said that the proposed change in duty would drive the brand men out of business.

Alexander C. Wood of Camden, N. J., Frank W. Lilley of New York, and George E. Barton of Philadelphia protested against the proposed reduction on steel pens and lead pencils. Mr. Wood said the reduction amounting to fifty per cent would benefit only the importers and foreign manufacturers.

"In the matter of wages, we pay dollars where the English pen makers pay shillings," said Mr. Lilley. He added that if the duty were reduced his company would set up its business in London.

Miss Margaret Boyington of Pittsburgh, testified today before the senate investigating committee regarding conditions at the homestead plant of the United States Steel Corporation. Miss Boyington once wrote a book on that subject. She is the first woman to appear before the committee.

Cortelyou Explains.

George B. Cortelyou told the house committee on expenditures in the post office department today of his action in issuing fraud orders against E. G. Lewis, of St. Louis, in 1905 and 1907 while he was postmaster general.

A publishing company owned by Lewis and also the United States bank of St. Louis, were affected by the order. Frank Madden who was third assistant postmaster general under Mr. Cortelyou, is now counsel for Lewis. Mr. Cortelyou said Madden had refused to issue fraud orders against Lewis and that he had issued them personally.

Mr. Cortelyou denied that any "extraneous influence" had anything to do with his action in the Lewis case. Regarding Judge Ship.

Taft today Senator Curtis and Representative Anthony of Kansas said that the President would not fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court bench until next week.

Senator Curtis said the President has promised to consider once more the claims made by Kansas in behalf of United States Judge Hook. Secretary Nagel, however, was still regarded today as the probable appointee.

TO ABDICATE THRONE INSIDE OF TEN DAYS

TANG SHAO YI CONFIDENT THAT IT WILL TAKE PLACE BEFORE FEBRUARY 18.

PRESIDENCY IN DOUBT

Draft of Proposed Magna Charta of Chinese Republic Completed.—May Compromise on Capital.

Shanghai, Feb. 9.—Tang Shao Yi, representative of Yuan Shi Kai, today declared that he was confident that the abdication of the throne would be an accomplished fact before February 18th.

"There appears to be less confidence that Yuan Shi Kai will be selected for the presidency of the republic. On the other hand, the name of General Li Yuan Heng, the present vice president, is mentioned and it is possible that he may be eventually selected.

The draft of the proposed magna charta of the new Chinese Republic has been completed by Dr. Wu Ting Fang, the minister of justice in the republican cabinet and awaits the approval of the senate at Nanking.

The document provides for a presidential term of five years, but the senate will make the first term only one year. It is thought that a compromise may be reached on the question of the future capital of China.

President Sun Yat Sen, however, asserts positively that Nanking will be selected, although he admits that an agreement may be made to keep Peking provisionally as the nominal capital.

Continuing fighting continues but the reports say the casualties are very much exaggerated on both sides. Tang Shao Yi declared positively that there would be no more serious fighting.

CHURCH GATHERING IS WELL ATTENDED

LARGE NUMBER AT CONGREGATIONAL HOME GATHERING LAST NIGHT.

THE MODERN MESSAGE

Rev. Beaton Gives Strong Address on Modern Expression of Religious Truths.

At the annual home gathering of the Congregational church last evening about three hundred members assembled in the auditorium for the program and later in the Sunday school room for the delightful repast which the young ladies had prepared. It was the general opinion of all present that this had been one of the most pleasant gatherings of the kind in the history of the church, the general theme being, "The Message of the Church of Our Own Day." The music, the decorations, the interesting address by the pastor and the general spirit of good fellowship which went through the entire company, all added to the pleasant and delightfulness of the occasion.

In his address on "The Message of the Church of Our Own Day," Rev. Beaton's main thought was that the old truths of the Bible, which had been handed down from generation to generation for so many centuries, must be put into a form which is compatible with the modern methods of thought. He spoke in part as follows:

"There is a movement in the present day to find a modern expression for many of the old truths, and thoughts which have come down to us through hundreds of years. This movement is not necessarily an evidence that we are outgrowing the need of them or are not giving them as great importance in our lives as they deserve, but is rather a sign of advance and improvement."

"Although the church is being criticized all the time this is not a cause for worry on the part of the members if the criticism is unjust. Nothing shows the standing of an institution in any community or situation in the world than the criticism which it draws. A church which is never criticized has something radically wrong with it. Nothing should be further from members of a church than resenting criticism."

"Great truths of religion live in the spirit and mind of the people and not in any special locality. A person would not necessarily come any nearer to getting a firm grasp on religious ideas as expressed today by a trip to Palestine, where so many of the scenes of the Bible were enacted centuries ago. Religion must live in the very being of the individual, and not come to him by any outside association."

"Christians must appeal to men in all walks of life and at the times when he needs it most, wherever he may be. If we who live in this day, so far from biblical times, think at all, we must think in accordance with the modern attitudes of thought to have the thoughts vital to us."

"Not only does this necessity of modernizing our thoughts apply to the individual, but also is required of the active church. Possibly there are more people come to church for the friendly attitude of the members than for the benefit to be gained from hearing the sermon."

"It is not the transitory minister, but the permanent people of a church who give it character and standing. If a strong, influential church, or well governed city, or any other institution with power is wanted, it must have a high class of people in it; the attitude of the membership is the source of its greatness or weakness."

"The church is not merely an ecclesiastical institution for the discussion of theological problems, but it is a great family bound together by holy ties."

Miss Pond opened the program of the evening with an organ selection by Spinnay, entitled, "Village Harpist Home." Music by the orchestra was next followed by the church history prepared and read by Miss Gertrude Bradley, church historian. In it she enumerated the marriages, births, and deaths which had occurred among the members of the church during the twelve months and gave other news of interest to the congregation. The history was well written and the interspersed touches of humor here and there added to the interest of the paper and its rendition received well earned praise. Mrs. Babler rendered two selections following this with her usual pleasing manner, which were highly appreciated by the audience.

Mr. Whitehead then read the clerk's report for the year, after which the orchestra again entertained the company with its exquisite music. After Dr. Beaton's address, Mrs. Babler sang "Joy of the Morning," and Miss Pond's rendition of Verdi's march from "Aida" on the organ, closed the program for the evening.

At the conclusion of the program the company retired to the Sunday school room where they were treated to a surprise in the shape of decorations, both of the tables and the room. A number of small tables took the place of the usual long ones and each table was daintily arranged with a large bouquet of carnations or roses in the center. The effect of the Japanese umbrellas and the red and white streamers which hung from the ceiling was carried out in a most delightful manner by the costumes of the waitresses who were adorned in brightly colored kimono. Refreshments, consisting of chicken salad, sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee were served by the young ladies.

After a few of the gentlemen and ladies present had answered to a call for short extemporaneous speeches, the gathering broke up.

HEARING CONDUCTED IN ACCIDENT CASE

First Case for Janesville Under Workmen's Compensation Act Heard at City Hall Today.

J. A. Tarrell, chief-examiner of the Wisconsin industrial commission, was at the city hall today to conduct the first accident hearing held in this city under the new workmen's compensation law. The purpose of the hearing was to secure a settlement between the city and Antonio Mier, a laborer, who was injured while removing sewer pipe at the corner of Wall and Washington streets on July 14th last.

Dr. Charles Sutherland who was called to attend the man, and Street Commissioner Dan Wilkins, under whose direction he worked, were examined by the commission's representative, and City Attorney Maxwell appeared for the city. Mr. Tarrell announced that the decision of the commission would be announced within a week or ten days. There was no dispute in the matter, the purpose of the hearing being to secure all facts necessary to arrive at a settlement.

Reflex-ions (No. 5)

The parlor, or whatever that room is called which the housewife delights to keep for a "show room" should be a real joy to her. It is used, perhaps, more frequently in the evening than at any other time and for that reason especial attention should be given to lighting effects.

The light in this room should never be glaring; it should lend itself to the atmosphere of the apartment all the while giving ample illumination. Reflex Lamps get the best effects from furnishings because Incandescent Gas light is soft and mellow and glassware can be found to blend with color schemes.

There are many handsome fixtures for Reflex Lamps all as reasonable in price as Incandescent Gas, which everybody knows is the most economical modern light. That is why

WASHINGTON ALUMNI CANCEL ENGAGEMENT

Madison Team Calls Off Game Late
In Evening—Pirates Defeat Cubs
13-2—Y. M. C. A. Blues
Down Cubs.

Owing to difficulties which they were unable to cope with, the Washington Alumni of Madison failed to put in their appearance at the appointed time and canceled the game. For the same reason as this team had to cancel the game, the St. George's aggregation also canceled theirs.

The "A" Junior game, which was to be a preliminary to the other game, was played, and resulted in a score of thirteen to two in favor of the Pirates. The Cubs put up a good game but were unable to cope with their clumsy opponents. The line-ups were as follows:

| Position | Cubs | Pirates |
|----------|-------|----------|
| Catcher | McCue | Wolsh |
| 1st | McCue | Roberts |
| 2nd | McCue | Hogan |

EASTERN COLLEGES
HOLD ANNUAL MEET

Indoor Track and Field Meet at Boston
Attractions Best of Eastern Star Athletes.

(Special to this Gazette)

Boston, Mass., Feb. 9.—The annual indoor track and field games of the Eastern Athletic Association, to be held in Mechanics Hall tomorrow night, will attract to this city more than 400 athletes representing all the prominent colleges and universities of the leading athletic clubs of the East. The decision of the Eastern Athletic Association to permit only the best track and field athletes to compete assures interesting competition in all the events.

The colleges are well represented in the entries for the team races, which are a feature of each year's meet. The list includes Harvard, Princeton, Cornell, Dartmouth, Yale, University of Maine, University of Vermont, Brown, University of Pennsylvania, Williams, Bowdoin, Holy Cross, Columbia, and Wesleyan.

The individual stars who will be seen in some of the events include Mel Shoppard, the half-mile champion, Alvin J. Meyer and H. E. Glasgow, all wearing the colors of the Irish-American A. C. of New York; A. R. Kivlat, the amateur mile champion, also entered by the Irish-American A. C.; A. J. Shupe, the old Dartmouth hurdler; Hal Holland, of the St. Xavier A. C. of New York; and Bob Eiler, of Georgetown University, who is also entered for the 49-yard event.

SOX TAKE TWO FROM DODGERS LAST NIGHT

McDonald Bowls High Score 180—
Tigers at Head of List at Present.

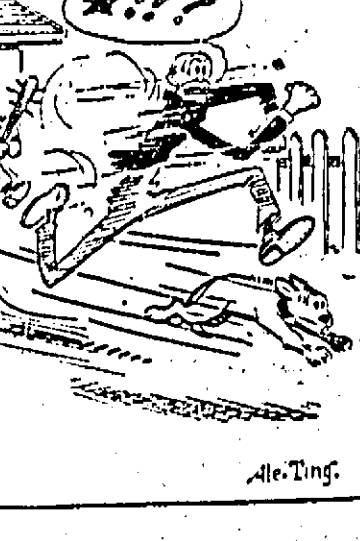

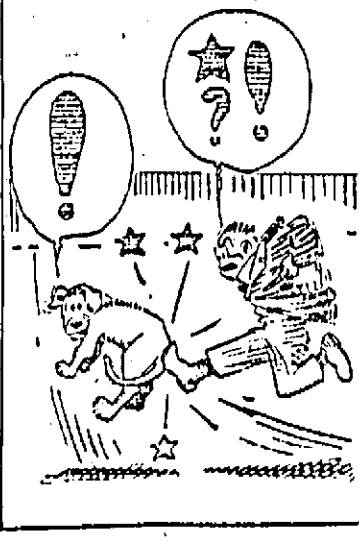

At present the Tigers are the most fortunate team in the bowling tournament having a percentage of .511 against the 567 of their two nearest opponents. For some time the three teams were neck and neck for first place each having the same percentage but the Tigers were finally more successful and forged ahead by winning one game more than the others. By losing two games last night the Dodgers bring up the rear with a percentage of .333.

At the alloys last evening the Sox won two games from the Dodgers, the first by nearly two hundred hits and the last by but eleven points. In the second game the Dodgers took the lead by a margin of 63 and things began to look hopeful for them but they were unable to gain the last one and lost the match. In the totals they were but fifty pins back of their opponents.

On Monday night the Sox and Tigers will meet and with a little luck and some good bowling the former may be able to take first place for a while. Below is the standing of the teams and last night's scores:

| Team | Wins | Losses | Percentage |

"LA BELLE MARIE" IS STRONG DRAMA

Plot of Drama Presented by Adelalde
Dalton Stock Company Cleverly Worked Out.

Replete with strong dramatic situations, "La Belle Marie" presented by the Adelalde Dalton Stock Company, at the Myers theatre last evening, portrayed the way in which a woman avenged the wrongs done her by a rich man's son. Disguised as a French adventuress, Jean Bonaparte, the heroine of the drama, subjugated George Layton, the man who wronged her, and in the revolution of his party and disloyalty, secured revenge. Incidentally she removes the shadow of disgrace which has fallen on Karl Layton, the younger brother of the villain of the drama. The production calls for strong dramatic action, and the company under Miss Dalton fulfills this demand. Miss Dalton herself takes the leading role as Jean Bonaparte, and portrays the part excellently.

Arthur Mathews as George Layton, is a clever actor, and the other members of the company are well selected for their respective parts. The play will be repeated this evening and tomorrow night with a Saturday afternoon matinee.

Wells jumped into prominence when he defeated "Porky" Flynn, the American pugilist. At that encounter the arena was well filled with titled ladies in fact, more of the weaker sex were present than the sterner gender.

BIG FOUR ENGINEER
TELLS HIS STORY

WAS ABLE TO RETURN TO WORK
AFTER BEING TREATED BY UNITED DOCTORS.

SICK FOR MANY MONTHS.

Other Doctors Did Not Understand
His Case—He Was Gradually Growing Worse.

J. D. Knight, the well known engineer on the Big Four, has a story to tell which will be especially interesting to railroad men and others who know Mr. Knight and know his reputation for honesty and reliability. Such men as Mr. Knight do not make these statements unless they are true.

He had been sick for a long time and finally got so bad that he could not work. He went from doctor to doctor but found no one who understood his case or could help him until at last he went to the United Doctors who have their Janesville Institute in the Hayes Bldg., corner of Milwaukee and Main streets.

Now he makes the following statement for publication:

"To the Public:
"I had been failing in health for a long time and on the 25th of July I was taken sick with liver and spleen trouble and was unable to work except a day now and then. I had pains in my side and back whenever I exerted myself and had no strength or ambition; any little work would exhaust me and I would give entirely out. I doctored with good doctors and plenty of them, but none of them seemed to understand my case—at least they didn't do me any good. I went from 167 to 137 pounds in weight.

"On the 19th day of November I went to the United Doctors for treatment and in two weeks they certainly have made a great change in my condition. I am now feeling well and hearty and can work every day. I am a railroad engineer on the Big Four and my fellow employees on that road are astonished at the remarkable results obtained from such a short course of treatment.

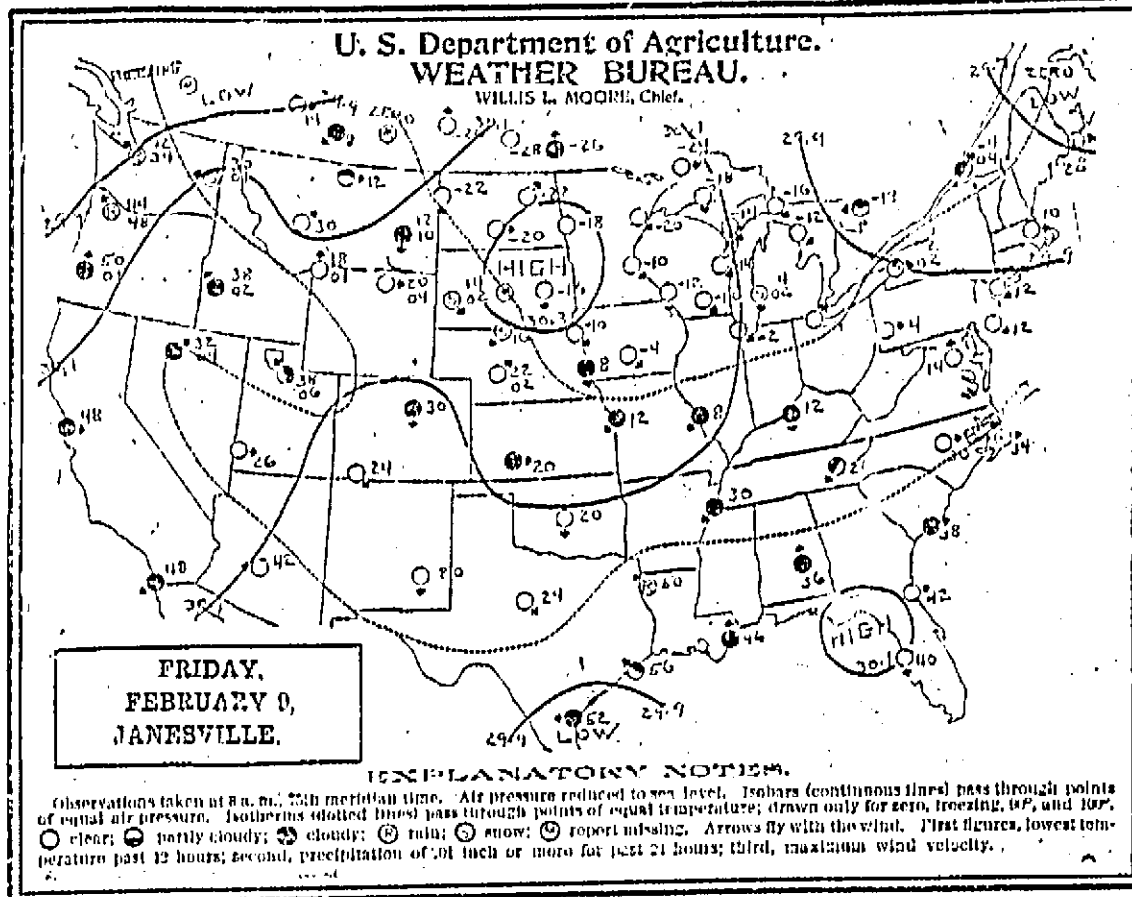

"J. D. KNIGHT."

The Janesville Institute of the United Doctors is in the Hayes Bldg., corner of Milwaukee and Main streets.

When They Made Good.

George Washington was commander-in-chief of the army at the age of 43; Cromwell entered upon his remarkable career at 29; Napoleon conquered Italy before he was 30; Gladstone was a member of parliament at 23; Macaulay began his literary career at 20; Columbus started out on his voyage of discovery at 35; Frederick the Great began the Thirty Years' war at the age of 30, and Blackstone had finished his "Commentaries" before he was 35.—Scrap Book.

High atmospheric pressures, with clear skies and low temperatures prevail throughout the Northwest. Low atmospheric pressures prevail over the Northern states, over southern Texas, and New Mexico, and on the North Pacific coast. Attending these barometric minima the weather is cloudy with snow flurries in the Lake Region, cloudy throughout the South, with a thunder shower at Shreveport, La., and cloudy in the Columbia Basin, with snow flurries in the northern Rockies and moderate rains on the North Pacific coast.

In this vicinity the weather will be controlled by the area of high atmospheric pressure on the northern plains, and will consequently be clear with low temperatures. The approach of the area of low barometer on the North Pacific coast will cause rising temperature, possibly, by Saturday afternoon or night.

This is a sworn report of the circulation of The Janesville Daily and Semi-Weekly Gazette for January, 1912, and represents the actual number of papers printed and circulated.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 1st day of February, 1912.

OLIVE M. HAYWARD,
 (Seal) Notary Public.
 My commission expires July 12, 1914.

TO PROSPECTIVE CANDIDATES.

The coming primary election is likely to put in the field a large number of candidates, as any man has a right to aspire to the office of either mayor or commissioner, who feels so inclined. It will be necessary for these men to get before the people, and for their information and convenience the Gazette publishes the following brief form of announcement which occupies about one inch of space. The charge for inserting this notice is 25 cents each issue, cash with order. No account will be opened with candidates.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for.....at the coming primary election, and solicit the support of the voters.

(Signed).....
 The Gazette has no names to suggest, and will support no man for office before the primary election.

THAT INCOME TAX.

That the editorial on the income tax and Prof. Adams' address to the income assessors has caused thinking persons to stop and consider the inequity of the law is clearly demonstrated by the interest shown in the matter. It is with pleasure to note that the Recorder adopts the same view of the situation as does the Gazette, that the law is one that is bound to work an injury to the state as a whole. It is amusing, however, to note the attitude of the Beloit Daily News in attacking the Gazette for having dared to tell the truth about the law. Anything done under the name of reform is all right to the News and its editor is blinded by his worship of the great reform leaders.

The News takes the Gazette to task and asks if it is afraid. There is nothing to be afraid of that can be seen. The law is on the statute books, the state supreme court has declared it constitutional, and while it is to be again tested, this time in the federal courts, it is a state law that all must obey. It is the privilege of any person to criticize the law, and while it may appear to the News to be less majestic to object to any of the socialistic, anarchistic doctrines that the reform legislatures have saddled upon the state the Gazette dares to think for itself and not be dictated to.

The News also comments upon the recent re-narration of Janesville and asks again if the Gazette is afraid that this city will pay its just share of the taxes of the county. Fortunately for Beloit it had no ambitious, young, misguided politician to ask for a re-narration of its property to boost his own political aspirations and has thus far escaped. It has been a notorious fact for years that Beloit has escaped with a small tax levy owing to the clever manipulations of its assessors and that far from accounting Janesville of avoiding paying its share of the taxes it should complement itself on having escaped with the minimum by clever evasion. Just where the News makes its claim of evading taxes good is not seen. Beloit claims to be larger than Janesville and yet its total tax levy was $50,055.85, while Janesville paid $51,772.41. For county taxes Janesville paid $15,187.07, while Beloit paid only $14,246.06. These figures show who pays the most for support of the county without any further comment.

With the re-narration under the direction of the state tax commission, Janesville had an opportunity of learning what to expect from the coming income taxation. The haphazard methods used by the "students" of political economy show that they followed the teachings of their instructor to "get the money." The Gazette does not teach evasion of taxes, but it deplores the existing conditions and the cause which made them possible.

There is such a thing as too much reform and it is to be hoped that Wisconsin will stop before it is too late.

TATTA'S CAMPAIGN.

Tatta's campaign from now on is to be waged along lines of actual work. Headquarters are to be opened in Chicago with Congressman McKinley in charge and there will be something doing. Meanwhile even the strong progressive papers are wondering what is coming next, and some of their own organs of reform in Wisconsin are intimating that perhaps Wilson or Harmon are not such bad men after all. Meanwhile there is nothing from Roosevelt beyond the statement he is in the ranks still fighting for the progressive ideas.

That sounds well, but when the actual work of the Tatta administration is properly placed before the people this doctrine will be lost sight of. Let Wisconsin turn to and elect delegates to go to Chicago and vote for the re-narration of the present leader of the republican party.

THE COMMISSION.

Just at present there is no lack of interest in the probable nominations for the offices of mayor and commissioner at the coming primaries. Present indications are that there will be no dearth of candidates to choose from and the field is open for all to try to win the approval of the public in their aspirations for public office.

A mayor and two commissioners will be selected at the April election and these will be named by the people, by the selection from the names of the two highest candidates for mayor at the primaries and the four highest for commissioner. Meanwhile the nomination papers are being circulated. Each individual can sign one paper for mayor and two for commissioner, no more. This may restrict the field somewhat but as only twenty-five signatures are necessary it should give plenty of good material to enter the race. It is open to all and the people make their choice.

Comparing tried to tell the Washington jurists that when he told the court to "Go to...." with their orders he merely quoted from Shakespeare. Even in labor troubles Shakespeare is found friends it would appear, as Mr. Gompers said nothing about Bacon's having written the play he took the reference from.

It is to be hoped that Superintendent Cary will not stop to reconsider his determination to make the race for office again. He is just the man we need in the position, and if given more power he would stop the pernicious influences of the political underclass the tax-payers are supporting.

Janesville is well represented in the motor truck show at Chicago by the Monitor company, and their car is receiving considerable attention from the experts who are examining it.

Former Presidential Candidate is to defend the indicted labor leaders who may be subject to the closest sort of investigation when they are all rounded up for trial.

If there should be a street car strike in Chicago the citizens would rejoice in the fact that it was February and not June, for it is much cooler to walk now than then.

It is to be the fashion, according to decrees, for fat men to get thinner. This goes along with the increased cost of living.

The man who drops out in a political race finds that even his closest friends like a winner.

Only Safe Way.

Shoboyan Journal: Uncle Sam has a lot of photographs of boots which the peddlers claim were destroyed, ready to be presented in court. The only safe way to be crooked these days is to let some all the cameras, telephones and dictographs and then commit your crime on some island in the middle of the ocean, first being sure that the wireless telegraph is broken down.

Who Can Tell? Let's suppose. If congress should pass a law declaring against the third term, and aiming at Col. Roosevelt, and the people declared they wanted him, what would be the result? Would they tear congress to pieces or simply recall the law? Or what would the supreme court do if the matter was taken up to it? And again, what might or might not Roosevelt do?

The Law's Strong Arm. Evening Wisconsin: The return of thirty-two true bills against dynasties by the federal grand jury at Indianapolis indicates that the strong arm of the law will reach out into various parts of the country and drag before the bar of justice a number of the men who are believed to have been implicated in one of the most stupendous and appalling criminal conspiracies which ever confronted the American people.

And she showed no sign of naggin' For she seemed to think that all I did was right. Oh, at last we two were wedded And the final words were said And the married folks all sadly shook our heads. Oh, delicious joys and blisses, We would give on love and kisses And the future for us two was simply grand.

Now, according to the rumor, I'm an ultimate consumer And it favors very little of romance Ever since we lost the reactor's I've been doin' bill collectors And I've got a lot of patches on my trousers.

And my handsome Arabeller, She ain't quite so soft and mellow— She is gettin' so that she kin see my faults.

Oh, when she gets good and busy She can talk until I'm dizzy And I feel like I was turnin' somersaults.

Oh, of course it may sound funny But it ain't all milk and honey When a couple has been wedded twenty years.

There's a lot of pain and sorrow That you do not have to borrow And a lot of little chances for the tears.

I ain't awfully no Atlante Or ain't doin' things romantic And she don't call me no hero now, adays.

But I love my Arabeller And I'm still her stidly feller, And we've traveled on together quite a ways.

CAUGHT ON THE FLY The question has been raised as to why so many authors' wives are getting divorces and the answer probably is because they married authors. No other excuse is necessary.

Cham Clark says the Republicans will be split and will nominate two candidates for president. Well, it should be some consolation to Champ to know that only one of them can win.

Reports from France say there is a scarcity of wild ducks, but there will always be one wild duck while Bonde de Castellane is on earth.

Mr. Carnegie is probably convinced by this time that peace and simplified spelling are two things that the world doesn't want.

A rich vein of soft coal has been discovered at Flint, Mich. A rich vein of soft soap was discovered there some time ago.

The emperor of China is only three years old and China just now is not a healthy place for children.

Recently they can raise something besides rowsters in Shanghai.

But the campaign will not really open until the travelling men begin taking straw votes on trains.

Chicago is to have a magazine for poets, and probably nobody but the poets will read it.

O. P. Winter seems to be strictly on the job and trying to make good.

SOME REASONABLE HINTS. If you can't sleep in the house nights on account of the oppressive humidity try an out-of-doors sleeping apartment. If you can't afford to have one built on the back end of your house, buy a small tent and pitch it in the back yard.

Flaps on each end of the tent open the wind will sweep through and it will have the same effect as though you had one of the fancy screened-in sleeping rooms.

Frequent ice water baths during the day will relieve you from the heat and enable you to stand it better. Electric fans placed at various points about the house will also help.

A good place to go to escape the heat is down in the potato bin. If you can afford to go out to town hire a yacht and take a long cruise on the ocean where the breeze is always fresh.

Wear sensible thin clothing. Fish not underwear serves to keep you cool.

When a person is overcome by the intense heat on the street, soak his or her feet in hot water.

Don't eat much meat and keep your temper and you will be able to keep cool, no matter how hot it may be out of doors.

PRESS COMMENT.

Chronic Illness. Those Washington people, who seem to think that La Follette's illness is genuine and that it means he will withdraw from the race for the presidency, don't know him. La Follette, in his Wisconsin political career, has always been sick when he was put in a hole, as he was at the Philadelphia dinner, and has retired to the privacy of his home in order to cook up some new tack upon his friends. And he is not a quitter. He would rather fight on, after being convinced that he is wrong, than admit it. If he should ever drop his role of "the only honest man in America," his prestige would be gone.

Only Safe Way. Shoboyan Journal: Uncle Sam has a lot of photographs of boots which the peddlers claim were destroyed, ready to be presented in court. Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THIS NEW DAY.

Miss the way yesterday? Try again today. If you failed yesterday you have a brand new chance to succeed today. Because—

This is a different world today from yesterday—altogether different. When you wake up this morning you wake up in a new world.

This morning? Why, this morning the world has turned completely over. And in turning over a whole lot of people and things were spilled completely out.

For instance— Thousands of people have died during the past twenty-four hours. And it will be long before the thousands who have been born during the twenty-four hours will be able to take the jolts of those who died.

Which gives you a chance. Get in. There are gaps in the line of the living. Get in before somebody picks up the dead man's gun and the ranks close up again.

And, then, a lot of people have done what you felt like doing yesterday—thrown up their hands, surrendered. They are quitters.

There always are quitters. Every time one of them steps out there is a good chance for you to step in. Yesterday is ancient history. This is a new day today.

Yesterday you felt discouraged. Things went against you. You fought with your back to the wall. And your heart misgave you. You thought you had failed.

Well, you hadn't! You were just merely being slowed up some. This morning you had a new chance. The kaleidoscope had changed. There was a new point of view. You found something yesterday. Use that knowledge today.

It is your tryout. This is a rough but kind world. It is putting you to the crucial test. It is trying you—as the furnace tries the gold. If you will let it do so it will melt the dross out of you and leave the refined gold.

Yesterday? The furnace seemed heated seven times its wont, but you are alive! The smell of the fire may be on your garments, but this is no other day—and you are alive.

Rabbits Uncatch Lost.

Jeweled rings, gold watches, muff chains, and other valuable articles stolen recently from a store in Dimboola (Vic.), Aus., were recovered the other day in a remarkable manner. The burglars had chosen a hollow log as a safe and innocent-looking "bank" for the loot; but while two young farmers were rabbit hunting, a rabbit took refuge in the fallen tree, and in the effort to dislodge the little animal the hunters discovered the treasure.

Cause and Effect.

"Private" John Allen of Mississippi was in his office one day when a very seedy and exceedingly unwashed tramp came in and told him a tale of woe. "I need a little money," said the hobo, "for I am in a bad fix. Not only am I hungry, but I am all broken up physically. I have dislocated my left shoulder. 'In that event,' said Allen dryly, 'you must have tried to put on a clean shirt.'—Popular Magazine.

Merchandise of Merit:

Unless the merchandise has merit, advertising is useless. The quality of our garments sustains our advertising. Sterling values and moderate prices tell the story of our success, which is measured by the steady growth of our business from year to year. When a woman buys a suit here, she becomes our steady patron and she, in turn, tells her friends where she bought it. This is good advertising, but only merit can develop it. Our clothes are made right at the right price and bear our labels. Thus we grow. Better come here and take a look. We'll not urge you to buy—the garments will do that.

HARVEY E. BAILEY TO TAKE FLORIDA BRIDE

Leaves Tomorrow for Brookville Where He Will Be Married to Miss Nell Peterson, February 15th.

Harvey E. Bailey, of the firm of F. J. Bailey and Son, leaves tomorrow for Brookville, Fla., where he will be married on the fifteenth of this month to Miss Nell Peterson of that place. The acquaintance which is to culminate in this happy union, was made in Beloit, where Miss Peterson visited with relatives for several summers. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey will make a tour of Florida, returning to Wisconsin about the first of March. The groom has a business in Beloit and, with his wife, will be at home to their friends after May 1.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Philomathian Meeting: A social meeting of the Philomathian History Class will be held at the home of Miss Ida Harris, 170 South Jackson street, at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Surprised by Friends: Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Steluke were pleasantly surprised by a number of their friends Wednesday evening. Cards and dancing were the diversion of the evening and supper was served at midnight. The guests left for their homes soon afterward, having passed a very pleasant evening.

Students go to Evansville: Tomorrow morning the A and Sub Juniors will leave for Evansville to spend the forenoon returning about noon the same day. It is not known just how many will go but it is desired that the entire class do so as far as possible. Physical Director Hartwell will be in charge of the boys and they expect to defeat the Cut Off City kids again in the basket ball and gym work.

LAWS SAFEGUARDING CHILDREN'S WELFARE ARE WIDELY ADOPTED

Report of U. S. Bureau of Education Describes Great Variety of Legislation for That Purpose.

Stringent child-labor laws; the payment of a child's transportation, or even his board and lodging; and the practice of hiring a child away from his parents in order to send him to school, are some of the more remarkable measures adopted during the year just ended by a number of states which are endeavoring to get every child of school age into school. These measures are described by J. C. Boykin, editor of the United States Bureau of Education, in a report issued for free distribution by the Bureau.

In Michigan, if poverty compels a child to go to work before completing his common school education, the district board of education may pay the parents as much as the circumstances require up to three dollars a week, in order that they may place their child in school. In addition, the child may be furnished with text books free.

In many states, very often small schools are a considerable source of concern, the state paying the parents or others to bring in the children. Mr. Boykin discusses this as follows:

"A variation from the usual provisions for transportation is found in the Minnesota law granting aid to consolidated districts. The school board of such a district is authorized to pay a reasonable amount for board and lodging in lieu of transportation of pupils at a distance from the school house. Another unusual development is the South Dakota law, which provides that when transportation is not furnished the school district shall pay to the parents or guardians of pupils living at a distance from the nearest schoolhouse, as much as ten cents a day of actual school attendance.

"These two enactments are examples of the unexpected results that sometimes follow new lines of legislation. In one case public funds not only furnish free tuition with all that it implies, but also pay a part of the board and lodging of the pupil; in the other case the parent is paid in cash for sending his child to school, for there is no requirement that he shall transport the child. In neither case does the element of charity appear.

"Other laws upon the general subject of transportation were enacted during the year in California, where pupils may be transported at the cost of the county to county high schools; in Kansas, where any district board may provide transportation for pupils living more than two and one-half miles from school; in Missouri, where the limit of distance is only one-half mile; in New Hampshire, where school districts were authorized to purchase necessary vehicles; in Pennsylvania, where it is provided that no pupil of a discontinued school shall be required to walk more than a mile and a half to a consolidated school; and in Iowa."

Increased educational requirements, and a shortening of the hours of labor for the purpose of allowing the worker greater opportunities for self-improvement, characterize the child-labor legislation passed during 1911 as another phase of the campaign to raise the general level of education in this country. In this connection, Mr. Boykin says:

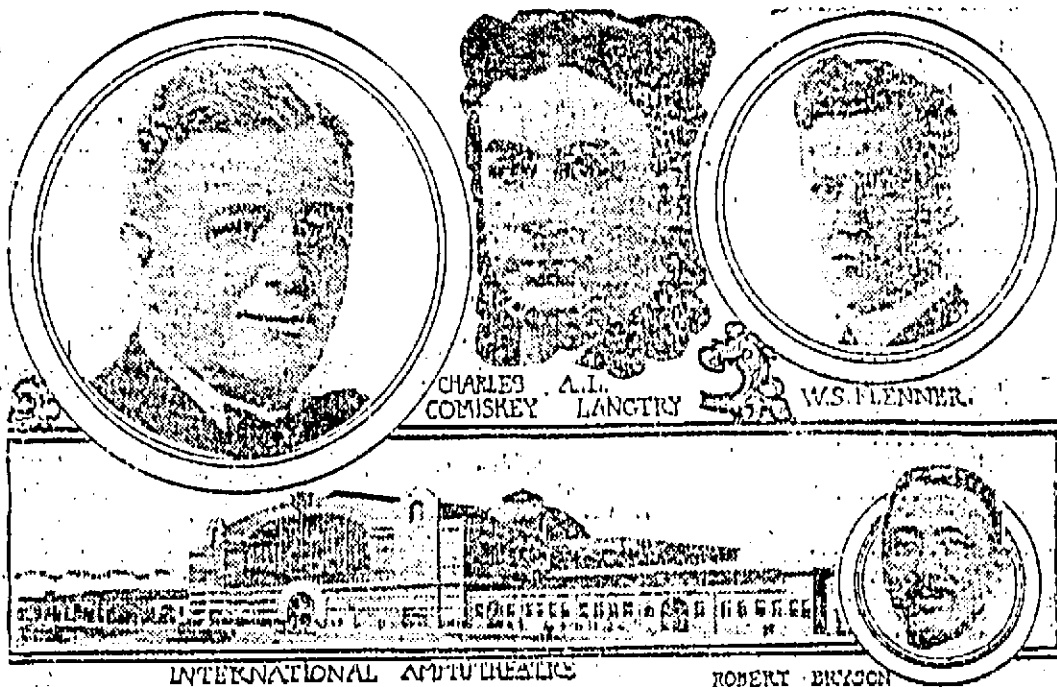

"Comprehensive laws of great importance to child labor, were passed during 1911 in Colorado, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri, New Hampshire, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Wisconsin. All these states previously had laws that were more or less effective, but in no case did the old law compare with the new in completeness or in definiteness. The new measure of New Hampshire is especially comprehensive and well drawn; that of Colorado is nearly as complete; and those of Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Missouri are notable in that they greatly broaden the field of legal regulation, for in these states the previous enactments were of limited application.

"The most advanced laws prohibit employment before the age of sixteen unless the child has completed the eighth elementary grade, but that standard is still considered too high in most of the states. Ability to read understandingly and to write legibly is all the education that is required in New Hampshire and Colorado for children between fourteen and sixteen, and that is as far as the requirements of the majority of states go.

"The Michigan law mentioned above amends previous acts, but its scope is such that it is entitled to be classed as an important general law. One of its provisions demands special mention, namely, that of limited vacation periods, for which all educational qualifications are waived, though all other requirements of the law must be enforced. As the name indicates, they are waived only during the summer vacation. Another paragraph provides for age certificates for persons over sixteen years of age.

"The hours of employment of children are regulated by law in a constantly increasing number of states. The Osborne law in New Jersey prohibits the employment of any child under sixteen in a mercantile establishment for more than fifty-eight hours per week, or between 7:00 p. m. and 7:00 a. m., except during the Christmas season. Other recent laws fix maximum weekly working hours as follows: Colorado, Missouri, and Wisconsin, for persons under sixteen, 48 hours; New York and Indiana, under sixteen, 54 hours; Utah, boys under fourteen and girls under sixteen, 54 hours; New Hampshire, boys under sixteen and girls under eighteen, 58 hours; North Carolina, under eighteen, 60 hours. In California, persons under eighteen are prohibited from working between 10:00 p. m. and 5:00 a. m.; the former law applied only to persons under sixteen."

Real Epochs of Life.
Real action is in silent moments. The epochs of our life are not in the visible facts of our choice of a calling, our marriage, our acquisition of an office, and the like, but in a silent thought by the wayside as we walk; a thought which revises our entire manner of life and says: "Thus have I done, but it were better thus."—Hervieu.

INTERNATIONAL AMPUTEE CONGRESS

ROBERT BRIDSON

BOWLING CONGRESS LARGEST EVER.

Chicago, Ill.—The 1912 Bowling Congress bids fair to exceed all expectations and break all records in the international interest manifested. The Dexter Park pavilion, at which the international light for bowling honors will be staged, will be fitted up so as to accommodate, if necessary, 900 teams. The host of the management has been that they would have 750 teams entered, but the unusual interest manifested now leads them to be bold in the prediction that it will come nearer the 900 mark.

Secretary Langtry, who has for a number of years so satisfactorily conducted the detail of the various tournaments, will again be on the job with headquarters at the Great Northern Hotel, after February 1st. At the present time, Secretary Will Flenner is taking an active part in the management of the tournament. Charles Comiskey, as president, is lending his assistance in every way.

It is expected that $35,000 will be distributed as prizes at this 12 annual tournament. The entry list will close at midnight on February 16th.

What kind of public speech?

Delicacy of the Ancients.
In Italy today pigs' livers are served in a way that is accurately described by Apicius before the Christian era. Mixed with herbs, salt and wine they are stuffed into small sausage skins, with one bay leaf to each and baked.

What measured distance?

Clear Head Means Success.
It is imperative on the man who would win and carve his way to the front to keep a clear head. You must keep your brain alert and on the watch to detect opportunity as it comes along so as to give your hands warning to seize it just as soon as it is within reach.

Pride.

Pride that dines on variety saps an epitomist. Pride breakfasted with plenty, dined with poverty and supped with infancy.—Benjamin Franklin.

Nature's Compensation.
Love and religion, the twin lights that shine across the darkest seas, shine as brightly for the poor man as for the millionaire, and the joy which ambition gives more often lights the pathway of the lowly than the boulevards of the plutocrat.

Great Enemies of Peace.

Two great enemies of peace inhabit us, namely, avarice, ambition, envy, anger and pride, but if those enemies were banished, we should enjoy perpetual peace.—Plutarch.

PASTOR RUSSELL TOURING INDIA.

Preaching Daily to Many of the Heathens.

Foreign Missions Investigation Committee, of which the Pastor is Chairman, Visit Travancore District, Where They Spend a Week Prosecuting Their Work.

Travancore, India, Feb. 4.—The Foreign Missions Investigation Committee of the International Bible Students Association has reached here. Pastor Russell, Chairman of the Committee, is widely known in this district. His coming has been a topic of interest for several weeks. Not only are Christians anxious to meet him, but their heathen countrymen are also interested. Mohammedans have been inquiring, "Has Pastor Russell any special message for us?" The arrangement is that the Pastor shall spend a full week in this district and be at Madras next Sunday. In his address the Pastor said: "I have chosen as my text on this occasion the Message of the angels at the birth of our Redeemer: 'For unto you, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be unto all people.' (Luke II, 10) I feel that I am not entirely a stranger to many of you, nor you to me. For a considerable time I have seen regular reports sent in from this district to the International Bible Students Association, of which I have the honor of being President. These reports in turn are published in the Bible Students' all over the world. We want you to know of the Christian love of these children of God of various nationalities who are represented by the Committee before you.

The Father of Mercies.
Two days ago, on the Island of Ceylon, my attention was drawn to the tomb of the good Bishop Heber. Immediately to my mind came his words: 'What though the spicy breezes Blow soft o'er Ceylon's isle, And every prospect pleases, And only man is vile!'

From childhood I had sung those words, and finally found myself on Ceylon's isle. But I am not so sure that the dear Bishop exaggerated a little the villainy of the human types of this vicinity. Poverty, indeed, I see on every hand, and, if villainous be measured by our great Creator by lack of wealth, then certainly you are vile in comparison to some more wealthy. But can we really believe that this is the Divine standard? Shall we not rather believe the words of Jehovah, "Man looketh upon the outward appearance, but God looketh upon the heart?"

I am not here to flatter you—to say that poverty is a proof of purity of heart. On the contrary, it is my duty as a minister of Christ to declare that there is none righteous, no, not one. But I may say to you that, admitting that all men have sinned—some in ways more peculiar to one nationality and some to another—it is ours to point out the need of an Atonement for sin and the fact that "the blood" sacrificial, "of Jesus Christ our Lord, cleanseth us from all sin."—Neither is there salvation in any other.

Now Look at Our Text.

Note its terms of a blessing intended of God for every creature. Two thousand years before the angels uttered those words God gave the same Message of hope and joy to Father Abraham. Let those of this audience who are Mohammedans, as well as others, call to mind the promise to which I refer. It was the promise with the oath. God, foreknowing that the fulfillment of the promise would be long delayed, made oath to it, so that all who trust in Him might have the consolation of that promise. And what is the promise? God said to Abraham, "In thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed."

The Divine Purpose looked down to Mesopotamia and saw in him the real Seed of Abraham through whom eventually Divine Power will be exercised and Divine Grace be shed abroad amongst men. However, according to the Scriptures, the Messiah, the Deliverer, is composed of numerous members. Each one of these members must be tested and proven in respect to his loyalty to God and to the principles of righteousness before he can attain to his glorious reward of the divine nature.

But mark you well—the selection of this special class does not involve the "non-elect" in eternal torment nor in any eternal disaster. On the contrary, the gathering of the "elect" should be regarded as an assurance on God's part of the fulfillment of His larger promise, that through these salutary ones, great blessings are to be showered upon Abraham's natural seed, you, and upon all the families of the earth. The blessing of the world will be bestowed. (Acts III, 21-25) If, as the Evolutionists tell us, the Bible theory that man was created in God's image is wrong, and he is really the offspring of an ape, then Evolutionism would be the worst thing that could possibly come to mankind. But the Bible is quite right; namely, that man was created perfect and upright—in the image and likeness of God, and that restitution will be the world's blessing.

Natural Question.
"He was one of their most reliable and trustworthy employees." "What's the matter, is he dead or just absent?"

The Holy Jesus in the Temple. Luke II:40-52.

Golden Text—How is it that ye sought me? What ye not that I must be in my Father's house? Luke II:49.

(1.) Verse 40—Was this experience of the child Jesus of growth, spirituality and wisdom any different to what any other child might have?

(2.) Now upon did the spirituality of Jesus depend upon his mother's training?

(3.) Did Jesus have any advantage over any other boy in a like environment?

(4.) Verses 41-42—What can you say for or against parents taking very young children to religious services?

(5.) What are the chances for children who are not taken to church nor religiously trained becoming earnest Christians?

(6.) What per cent of children who are religiously trained by a mother both wise and good will develop into strong religious characters?

(7.) What feast was it that the parents attended at Jerusalem?

(8.) Verses 43-45—Why was there nothing strange in the parents of Jesus not missing him for a whole day?

(9.) Why should parents these days not allow a twelve-year-old boy to be where they know not?

(10.) What class is it safe to follow in looking for a twelve-year-old boy?

(11.) Was it the fact that Jesus knew his company had left Jerusalem? Give your reason.

(12.) Verses 46-47—How do you suppose they spent the three days before they found the boy Jesus?

(13.) If the parents had known their son's character more intimately would they have gone to the temple sooner?

(14.) Why, under the circumstances, was it not extraordinary for Jesus to be found in the midst of these rabbis?

(15.) What kind of a meeting today most resembles the one Jesus was found at?

(16.) Why would you or not say that there was anything supernatural in the presence of Jesus?

(17.) Which is the better way to learn truth and why? Listening to sermons and lectures or by questions and answers?

(18.) Verse 48—Ought they to have been "amazed" when they saw Jesus in such company?

(19.) Why is it possible and essential for parents to be acquainted with the inner life of their children? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(20.) Did Mary act wisely in blaming her son? Why?

(21.) Verses 49-51—What did Jesus mean by his answer which his parents did not understand?

It was in circulation for many years, a source of annoyance to the cashiers in making up their accounts. At length the holder of it brought it to the bank and after considerable argument persuaded the authorities to give him 45 for it.

PARTY AT HOME OF MR. AND MRS. COX

Employees at County Farm and Others Enjoyed Pleasant Gathering at Pulton Home.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Edgerton, Feb. 8.—The largest attended and most pleasant social event held in this section this season occurred Wednesday evening at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cox in Pulton township.

The event was planned and engineered by the head officers and employees of the county house who, together with neighbors and friends numbering about one hundred and fifty, took complete possession of the house.

The happy gathering entered upon the evening's enjoyment in a merry manner including music, dancing and cards and at midnight an elaborate spread brought the occasion to a close.

Twenty well filled tables and many cutters were required to transport the throng of people and that all had a good time goes without saying.

Eccentric Men of London.

We have spoken of London eccentrics. One wonders what London thought of Robert Stephen Hawker, the Vicar of Morwenstow, when he visited London (for the second time in his life) in 1844. Lord Exmouth, invited to lunch with him at the Great Western Hotel, Paddington, found him dressed precisely as he used to dress in his Cornish village—fisherman's knitted jersey, long purple coat, and wading boots. Lord Exmouth, bubbling with laughter, said: "I am not surprised the waiter should say there was no clergyman here." To which Hawker replied: "No doubt, you would rather see me dressed like a waiter, with a black coat and white choker. I've felt obliged to say 'Sir' to him twice already."—London Chronicle.

perateness is a powerful force in the production of new business. Perateness wins over everything, and advertising persistency is capable of increasing your sales—not spasmodic, temporary, hot-house increase, bringing new customers more business and more profits. Spend a few minutes with the advertising pages of the magazine; observe the poster covered walls and painted billboards throughout the city; note the advertising columns of the daily newspaper and you will have the truth hammered home—that the successful advertisers are those who are persistent and consistent.

TO VISIT AMERICA

Washington, D. C.—The Kaiser is determined that Germany should not be outdone by the recent visit to New York and Washington by a British Royal Duke, the Duke of Connaught. With this end in mind he has commanded Prince Adalbert, his favorite youngest son, to visit the United States. Uncle Sam's largest battleship will greet him in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean and escort him to New York. On his arrival he will be received by the royal salute of 21 guns.

EGGS DROP TO 40;
POTATOES STILL UP

Few Changes on Local Markets Today.
—Fine Cabbages Brought in From Country.
Fresh eggs have dropped during the last two or three days and the highest price charged today is 40¢. This is glad news for the housewife who needs a large number of eggs as it precludes a further drop within a short time probably. At the rate which they were going up and getting scarcer many people began to think that eggs would be a minus quantity as far as they were concerned. But the extreme high price did not last very long and though they are still very high there are hopes of a gradual decline that will bring them within the reach of the common mortal.

Some of the dealers in town received consignments of cabbage from the country which were fine and large today. Parsnips are bringing 60 cents a bushel wholesale now having been only 50 cents for several weeks. Potatoes still hold to their old mark of $1.20 a bushel and very few of the large consumers in the city are buying more than just what they need for the present. The markets are very quiet today owing to the cold weather and the prices are as follows:

Vegetables.
Carrots—20 lb.
Parsnips—25¢ lb.
Potatoes—$1.20 bu.
Cauliflower—20¢.
Green Peppers—5¢ each.
Squash—15¢@20¢.

Serious Complication.
"I know how to sympathize with you, Mrs. Polhemus," said Mrs. Lap-pling. "My left eye was affected once just as yours is and I had awful trouble with it. The doctor said the trouble was that the subconjunctiva was granulated."

HEART AND HOME TALKS

Ten Rules for Married Happiness.

THE wife of a famous writer, herself an actress, has given ten rules for married happiness. According to her, if we walk in the following path, we are sure to arrive at connubial bliss.

- "1. Marriage is a combination of two imperfect personalities. The smart wife considers herself the most imperfect part of the combination."
- "2. The part of the wife is to look out, to anticipate, to give in, to amuse, to conciliate. In this manner, she will contribute to the mental peace and the material well-being of her husband."
- "3. Don't allow a hired person to be your husband's caterer and possibly the destroyer of his health. Select his food and cook it."
- "4. See to his clothes, his laundry, his socks and handkerchiefs."
- "5. Turn yourself into a marital barometer and anticipate electric storms. Play the lightning rod, so no one gets hurt."
- "6. Be joyful when your husband is joyful; counteract his spells of temper by being agreeable and pleasant."
- "7. When your husband comes home, don't bother him with affairs of the household, or the neighbors, or your own. When the meal has been a success and he is rested, he will stand for anything."
- "8. Your tongue should be the assenter. Dissent only with your eyes."
- "9. If your husband has rheumatism, don't talk about dancing."
- "10. If you want to make your husband believe you are superior to other women, excel as a cook."

Of course, one can't tell whether she is saying this because she thinks she is expressing popular views—though I doubt it even the average woman would today accept her program—or whether she thinks she must talk down to her audience. And also, I grant that a home run on these lines would probably be free from domestic storms.

But what sort of existence would it be for the wife?

And what sort of creature would such a course ultimately make of the husband?

And would it be for a man's highest good for a woman absolutely to efface herself and minister to his every whim? I doubt if thinking men would want to see these ten rules enforced.

That matrimony is a combination of two imperfect personalities is true. But each should recognize his imperfections and try to cure them. For one side to admit that she has all the faults, and the other none, is injustice to herself, and will not work out for the ultimate good of the other. This does not mean that a wife should nag or find fault. But the man should be big enough to see his own deficiencies and to try to overcome them.

A wife should run the home just as perfectly as possible. That's her part of the business. But that doesn't mean she should play valet to her husband. If he is a strong, able-bodied man, there is no reason for her picking up his soiled linen, and hunting up his collar buttons, and as a rule attending to all the minutiae of dressing for him.

There is more to marriage surely than the plane upon which this woman puts it. To prostrate herself so completely and express so little of individuality, to live so materially, surely is to miss the higher, finer joys of married life—for one thing alone, the companionship which is only enjoyable when there are two congenial individuals. The wife who is but an echo of her husband, who smiles when he smiles, assents when he assents, surely does not bring to the partnership that spice and charm of variety, that inspiration when he is downhearted, that need of sympathy when she herself is despondent, that gives zest and purpose to married life.

American women will hardly accept these ten rules of their distinguished visitor from overseas. Marriage to them means something higher and finer than this. Nor will the thinking American man endorse her views. He is not purely animal. Nor does he want in his wife only a cook and valet.

The KITCHEN CABINET

MAKE the home-coming sweet! The gladness of going and the pleasure of knowing will not be complete, unless, at the ending, The home-coming's sweet.

SOME HOT BREAKFAST DISHES.

For a cold frosty morning a hot cake is most acceptable. Waffles are cakes that are more wholesome than the ordinary griddle cakes as they are cooked crisp and brown.

Waffles.—Mix and sift one and a fourth cups of flour with a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful of soda. Separate the whites and yolks of two eggs, beat well and add one cupful of thick sour milk to the yolks; stir in the dry ingredients and add three tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Cut and fold in the whites of the eggs and bake on a well-greased waffle iron.

Oatmeal Muffins.—Mix and sift together one and one-half cups of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of sugar. Cut in one-fourth of a cup of butter, add a half of a cup of milk gradually, one beaten egg and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, with a cup of cooked oatmeal. Bake in muffin rings placed in a buttered pan.

Breakfast Savory.—Have ready two tablespoonfuls of butter, half an onion, a cup of dried bread, five eggs, a teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of pepper; melt the butter in a saucepan, add the chopped onion and fry brown, add the dried bread, brown this, add salt, pepper and put into the other mixture, toss with a fork until the eggs are set. Serve immediately.

Baked Rice Potatoes.—Boiled potatoes are excellent if put again through a ricer and placed in a buttered baking dish with plenty of seasonings and baked a delicate brown.

A Novel Salad.

A delicious and dainty salad—good at all times—is made by laying a slice of canned Hawaiian pineapple on a lettuce leaf. Heat a knife and spread cream or mayonnaise cheese over the pineapple; arrange pointed strips of pineapple like the petals of a pansy over the cheese; heap mayonnaise in the center and put a stuffed olive on top.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Cooking a Tough Fowl That is Called a Chicken by Courtesy.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

Those who worry over the price of a fowl when it goes above eighteen cents a pound may yet have an interest in the chicken so dressed as to sell at fifty cents a pound. This price is given for a chicken boned and trussed and, although it seems a high figure it must be remembered that a little less than half of the chicken, as ordinarily sold, is edible.

Therefore the cost of a boned chicken is not so exorbitant after all. It is customary to stuff and roast it and in carving both the dark and light meat will come in each slice.

But housekeepers more often have a fowl to cook than a fancy trussed chicken and if not too old, a fowl tastes as good as a chicken if cooked properly. It may be stuffed and steamed a long time, or cooked in the fireless, or it can be cut up and steamed for a fricassee or a chicken pot pie, or a short-crust, or a pie baked in a crust. The secret of having it tender lies in slow cooking. Even a novice knows that a fowl cannot be roasted or baked.

Southern cooks were always famous for their chicken no matter in what way it was prepared. They have a habit of soaking the chicken or fowl in salted water for at least half an hour before cooking it.

This is contrary to the advice of some of the present day cooks and teachers yet for once I agree with the cook who says "I soaked it in salt and water to draw out the blood and what wouldn't be in it and I cooked it slow to keep its strength from going off in steam." I enjoy the results and let her "soak" go for what it is worth.

A chicken pot pie is not a common dish. Cut the chicken in pieces as for a fricassee, cover with boiling water and cook slowly until tender. Skim often to remove every bit of the fat that it is possible to take off. Rub a rounding tablespoon each of flour and butter and season with salt and pepper.

Have six good sized potatoes boiled, unpeeled and seasoned with one beaten egg, one cup of milk, one rounding tablespoon of butter and a level teaspoon each of salt and baking powder sifted with enough flour to make a mixture that can be rolled or patted out on a floured board.

Cut in squares and drop on the boiling liquid; put the cover on closely and cook ten minutes without uncovering and be sure that the chicken boils all the time. Put the chicken on a warm platter and arrange the potato dumplings round it.

A chicken short cake is a change. Make a dough with four cups of pastry flour sifted with four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder and half of one of salt. Rub in one-third cup of butter and mix with three-quarters cup of milk or enough to make a soft dough that can be patted out rather thin to fit a pan.

Bake in a quick oven then tear

MONUMENT TO THE WOMEN OF THE CONFEDERACY.

TRIBUTE TO SOUTHERN WOMEN.

Charleston, S. C.—Here is the first monument to Southern women ever erected independently by a state, and it shows the Southern woman dignified and beautiful, willing to be crowned with laurel by the majestic figure in the rear. On either side are figures representing the South burdened with (triumphant) laurel to lay at her feet. The monument is typical of the spirit of the South vanquished, but never humbled, triumphant even in defeat. The unveiling will be a great event in South Carolina, attracting a large attendance of the United Confederate Veterans and the United Daughters of the Confederacy as well as all the distinguished men and women of the state.

apart with two forks; do not cut with a cold knife. Have the chicken prepared and cooked as for the pot pie, turn on to one-half of the crust; lay on the top crust and pour the gravy round it.

Roll the dough half an inch thick and cut in small rounds. Bake quickly, split and arrange round on the meat dish then turn the chicken over. A fowl steamed or boiled slowly is just as good as chicken for making a salad. Cool, skin and with a sharp knife, cut in little cubes. Do not make the mistake of chopping it if the salad is to be of the best quality. The broth from cooking the fowl will make the foundation for a plain chicken soup, or a cream of chicken.

TO OVERCOME HABIT OF OVEREATING.

How much gasoline is needed to run an automobile? It is no more difficult to answer this than the question, how much shall I eat? Few people have a normal appetite, most of us eat too much, and when we come to realize the injury done, usually by serious injury to health, wish to be told how much to eat as well as what. Indiscriminate mixing and unnatural seasoning of foods destroy the normal appetite, so that the best way to restore it is to gradually discontinue these habits. Dr. B. W. Child writes me that he has found by testing the practice with patients that the habit of overeating is more easily controlled by eating one or two articles of food at a meal than in any other way, the method having proved very successful in cases of excessive appetite. However, such a change must be made gradually.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

EVEN those neighbors who had called Peter Featherstone an old fox had never accused him of being insincerely polite, and his sister was quite used to the peculiar absence of ceremony with which he showed his sense of blood relationship. Indeed, she herself was accustomed to think that entire freedom from the necessity of behaving agreeably was included in the Almighty's intentions about families.

—George Elliot in Middlemarch.

How many people in this latter day and generation seem to share Mrs. Woolf's opinion in regard to the Almighty's intentions about families?

And how many more, who may not think themselves absolved from being decently agreeable, do seem to feel a complete absence of any obligation to observe in their homes the various little courtesies and amenities which all the wheels of social life.

I was much surprised the other day, when visiting at a new friend's home, to observe that "If you please" and "Thank you" were phrases almost entirely omitted from the home vocabulary. No one thought of saying "Excuse me" on rising from the table. No member of the family said "Good morning" to any other member. In short, although family relations appeared to be ordinarily agreeable, it seemed as if a mutual agreement to eliminate any unnecessary courtesies had been made in that household. And yet, outside her home, this woman is a most punctilious observer of every form and ceremony.

Now, some one has asked what is the use of having a family unless one can relax in their presence and be disagreeable to them, and I suspect that query sometimes finds an echo in all our hearts. But seriously, if "Please" and "Thank you" and all such courtesies are natural expressions of a spirit of love and consideration, instead of artificial forms which ought to be entirely discarded, surely there is no place more meet for their use than the home, where are assembled those whom we love the most, and to whom we owe the greatest consideration.

When I read in the newspapers of the doings of high society, meaning that kind of society which is founded on wealth, which is entirely independent of breeding or education, and which includes women who smoke, drink and swear, and men who have no more manly occupation than to give parties to monkeys, I never feel a pang of envy that I was not born into that class. For you see I have my own ideal of high society. And it consists of those who have generations of breeding and education behind them and who, if they happen to be wealthy, use the leisure which is granted them out of the sweat and toil of other men's lives for study, for social service, for intelligent travel and for converse with other really fine folks. Now isn't that a circle to which you would like to belong? And don't you feel sure that such folks as these are at least almost as careful about the little amenities of life in their homes as outside them? I do.

Now perhaps you are conscious that you lack the ancestry, the bringing up, or the opportunity to belong to such a circle. But wouldn't you like to have your children or grandchildren help constitute such a class in their day? If you would, I think one great step towards that end would be for you to try to have a home life, in which courtesy and good breeding are part of the atmosphere.

WOMEN FOR PROGRESS.

IN A RECENT Sunday issue, the New York Times published interviews on leading political and economic issues by Dr. Anna Shaw, President National Suffrage Association; Harriet Mills, President New York State Suffrage Association; Ida Husted Harper, well-known writer and lecturer on suffrage; Inez Milholland, and Elizabeth Freeman, two young college women prominent in the suffrage movement.

The Times expressed the belief that few men could have answered the questions more clearly and intelligently. To me, however, the great significance of the interviews and their general consensus of opinion, was the evidence they offered that thinking women like thinking men, were lined up for Progress.

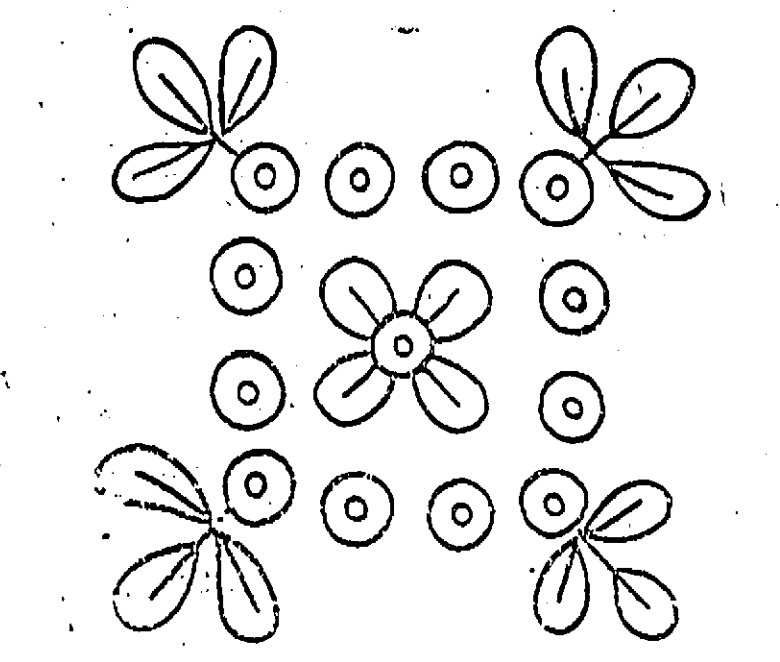

There was no hesitation about the tariff. They all agreed it should be revised downward. With the greatly increased cost of living, women who do most of the buying, are made to realize that the tariff is almost a woman question.

As to the trusts, while there was diversity in their answers, they were fundamentally in accord that the trusts as they exist today should be regulated in such a way, as Miss Mills expressed it, "that their operations shall benefit the people, instead of being merely for the capitalists." At the same time they all recognized the value of combination to the extent of the economic unit of production.

In substance, these women were of the opinion, that the trade union is necessary to offset the unregulated trusts and that the closed shop, while an interference with personal liberty, may be a temporary necessity in the struggle of workmen for better conditions.

The initiative, referendum and the election of United States Senators by direct vote, all had the hearty support of these able women on the broad ground of government by and for the people.

What better proof could be furnished that women will contribute breadth of view and sympathy with democracy to our political life.

Nothing else that you can take will break your cold or grippe so promptly as a dose of Pope's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

The most miserable neuralgia, pains, headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism pains and other distress begin to leave after the very first dose.

Pope's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world which will cure your cold or grippe more quickly and with out any other assistance or bad aftereffects, as a 25-cent package of Pope's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

SUGAR BEET CROP PARTIALLY SPOILS

LOCAL FACTORY IS HOWEVER STILL RUNNING AND USING ALL THE BEETS IT CAN.

OPINION THRO' STATE

Wisconsin Has Come to the Front as a Sugar Beet Producing State in Few Years.

While the Rock County Sugar Company's sugar factory in Spring Brook is still running, the season for the winter is over and the bulk of the longest season in the history of the local industry is nearing an end. It has not been a very successful year, owing to climatic conditions and the quality of the beets grown. However, it is not thought that it will be any discouragement to growers as the sugar beet crops have been most unusually good paying crops in the past. The following dispatch from Madison, Wis., of the state at large and the conditions elsewhere.

Delayed harvest due to troublesome climatic conditions has resulted disastrously for Wisconsin beet sugar companies, who are due, it is said, to pocket big losses this year. A long, dry summer, followed by a wet fall, prevented the ripening of the beets until late, and the factories were several weeks late in starting. Then the companies found themselves swamped with hundreds of cars of beets standing on the tracks that could not be unloaded at once, and the blockade caused the railroads to refuse cars for shipment. Beets were piled up along sidings at receiving stations all over the state. Then came the heavy freeze and the warm weather all through December, a condition which led to ruinous chemical results and wholesale waste.

The output for the season, however, promises to be equal to if not exceeding last year's, due to the increased acreage in 1911. Spoiled beets are transformed into valuable by-products. Beets that have frozen are converted into molasses. In the southern Wisconsin fields the beets grown last season contain a much reduced percentage of sugar. Wisconsin is now growing beets for five factories.

The factory at Chippewa Falls has closed a successful season, although handicapped by the thaw. Over 10,000 pounds of sugar were manufactured from approximately 50,000 tons of beets, doubling the previous season's output.

The Monongahela Sugar Co., near Marinette, closed the longest run in its history and shipped 15,000 pounds of sugar. Improvements costing $200,000 are planned.

The Madison plant, known as the United States Sugar Co., is still running. Beet-growing is rapidly becoming more profitable. One farmer in Columbia county is reported to have received a check for $1,666 for the beets raised on nineteen acres of his farm.

Mr. Wagner one of the owners of a big factory in the state and well known to Janesville people writes of the outlook as follows and shows that a larger number of Wisconsin farmers have raised sugar beets last year than ever before, there being nearly $2,000,000 received by the farmers from the Wisconsin beet sugar companies in 1911.

"The farmers of Wisconsin," says Mr. Wagner, "have taken up the raising of sugar beets to such an extent that the four best sugar factories located in this state were crowded beyond capacity to take care of last season's crop. This indicates that the growing of sugar beets is adapted to Wisconsin soil and climatic conditions, and farmers who have grown sugar beets since the industry was first established here ten years ago, have found that it is not only a profitable cash crop, but that the green tops are good feed for farm stock and that the intensive cultivation required for the successful growing of sugar beets benefits the soil and makes these roots a desirable rotation crop."

"About thirty thousand acres of Wisconsin were planted in sugar beets last season and the crop produced from these acres was more than the four existing factories could conveniently take care of. This company will increase the capacity of its factories and is considering the building of several additional factories, as there are some desirable locations in the state where enough beets can be secured but at a great distance from existing factories."

The annual consumption of sugar in Wisconsin amounts to about two hundred million pounds, representing a value of ten million dollars or about $50,000 per day. Only about one fourth of this sugar is now produced in the state, but from the progress so far made it would seem that in a few years all the sugar consumed here will be produced in Wisconsin. This will mean that instead of sending away ten million dollars annually, to pay our sugar bill, this sum will remain in the state to be widely distributed among our own people and therefore is a double gain.

Michigan, where the beet sugar industry was commenced only a few years earlier than in Wisconsin, is now the largest producer of sugar in the United States. Last year Michigan grew about 140,000 acres of sugar beets, which supplied sixteen large factories and not only produced enough sugar for home consumption, but a large surplus for distribution among the neighboring states.

"Beet sugar is just as good as cane sugar. It is physically and chemically the same substance and is generally much cleaner product because it is manufactured in a cool climate, free from insects and flies as compared with tropical cane sugar, which not only contends with the above objections, but frequently lies around for months on wharfs and in holds of vessels where it is subjected to all kinds of unsanitary influences."

Mrs. E. G. Brown and son, Charles, came out from Janesville Thursday forenoon.

GRABER WILL SPEAK REGARDING ALFALFA

Professor From State Agricultural School Will Speak at One O'clock Tomorrow at City Hall.

Prof. L. E. Graber, one of the grain experts of the state agricultural college, who will be at the grain exhibition of the Rock county association at the city hall tomorrow, will give an address to the farmers and others interested on the subject of "Alfalfa Feeding."

Prof. Graber will have in charge of the judging of the grain exhibits in the morning with the assistance of one or two other men from the state school and will give his address at one o'clock in the afternoon, in the assembly room of the city hall where the exhibition will be held.

The subject of the lecture tomorrow will be of interest to all farmers of Rock county. Alfalfa in this section has been raised with indifferent success due for the most part to ignorance on the part of the farmer in preparing the ground and taking care of the crop after growth has been started.

The crop has been successfully raised in other parts of the state especially in the dairy sections where it is most valuable as feed for milk cows. As it possesses all the qualities of clover for renewing the fertility of worn-out land, it is also considered as a valuable crop in all localities.

There will be a large number of entries in the grain exhibit. It was stated by the authorities of the association today, all chances and grades of grain will undoubtedly be represented and first-class specimens of Rock county grain will undoubtedly be shown.

Numerous inquiries have been received at the Gazette office for specific information regarding the show and the members of the committee in charge have also answered many questions concerning the affair. It is suggested that the show be made an annual event, providing the number of entries and interest tomorrow be as good as present indications.

Take mother's advice—

"Buy Mex-o-ja from the grocer and grind it at home, as needed."

When you grind your coffee at home you get the most and the best from every pound. The trifle of extra labor in grinding is nothing when compared with the extra goodness gained.

Experience teaches that ground coffee, no matter how ground, or packed by the manufacturer, quickly loses its aroma, strength and fragrance. These are the very qualities which cause you to like coffee, and which contribute so largely to your physical and mental well being.

Coffee is a product of Nature and to get the most and best out of this great gift you must take "mother's advice"—grind the coffee at home. The so-called newly discovered principles in coffee grinding may read well, but our experience proves. "mother's advice" is correct. If you have been buying coffee already ground, take us at our word and make the experiment of comparison. Buy a package of MEX-O-JA from the grocer and grind it yourself. The finished result will convince you that it is the correct and sure way of getting the most and the best out of one of Nature's greatest gifts to man.

Headache?—It's Your Liver

Too Many People Take Headache Powders When a Liver Tonic Is Needed.

Try Olive Tablets—the Substitute for Calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the one substitute for dangerous calomel. They do all of calomel's work without any of its bad after effects. There is no necessity, when you take Olive Tablets, of following them up with nasty, sickening, griping salts or castor oil, as you should after taking calomel.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel or any other metallic drugs; they are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil, sugar-coated, easy to take, and never grip or cause weakness.

Thousands of people take one every night at bedtime just to prevent disorder of the liver, constipation, bad breath, pimples, headache, etc.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards' calomel's old enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with liver and bowel troubles. Try them for a week. Take one on retiring nightly. Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company of Columbus, Ohio. Dr. P. M. Edwards, President.

The PHANTOM OF THE OPERA

By Gaston Leroux
Author of
THE MYSTERY OF THE YELLOW RACE and THE PERFUME OF THE LADY IN BLACK
Illustrations by M. G. Kettner
Copyright 1911 by The Bobbs-Merrill Company

"My anger equalled my amazement. I rushed at the mask and tried to snatch it away, so as to see the face of the voice. The man said, 'You are in no danger, so long as you do not touch the mask.' And, taking me gently by the wrist, he forced me into a chair and then went down on his knees before me and said nothing more! His humility gave me back some of my courage, and the light restored me to the realities of life. However extraordinary the adventure might be, I was now surrounded by mortal, visible, tangible things. The furniture, the hangings, the candles, the vases and the very flowers in their baskets, of which I could almost have told whence they came and what they cost, were bound to confine my imagination to the limits of a drawing-room quite as commonplace as any that, at least, had the excuse of not being in the cellars of the opera. I had, no doubt, to do with a terrible, eccentric person, who, in some mysterious fashion, had succeeded in taking up his abode there, under the opera house, five stories below the level of the ground. And the voice, the voice which I had recognized under the mask, was on its knees before me, was a man! And I began to cry. The man, still kneeling, must have understood the cause of my tears, for he said, 'It is true, Christine! I am not an angel, nor a genius, nor a ghost. I am Erik!'"

Christine's narrative was again interrupted. An echo behind them seemed to repeat the word after her. "Erik!"

What echo? . . . They both turned round and saw that night had fallen. Raoul made a movement as though to rise, but Christine kept him beside her.

"Don't go," she said. "I want you to know everything here!"

"But why here, Christine? I am afraid of your catching cold."

"We have nothing to fear except the trap-doors, dear, and here we are miles away from the trap-doors. . . . and I am not allowed to see you outside the theater. This is not the time to annoy him. We must not arouse his suspicion."

"Christine! Christine! Something tells me that we are wrong to wait till tomorrow evening and that we ought to fly at once."

"I tell you that, if he does not hear me along tomorrow, it will cause him infinite pain."

"It is difficult not to cause him pain and yet to escape from him for good."

"You are right in that, Raoul; certainly he will die of my flight."

"And she added in a dull voice, 'But then it counts both ways . . . for we risk his killing us.'"

"Does he love you so much?"

"He would commit murder for me."

"But one can find out where he lives. One can go in search of him. Now that we know that Erik is not a ghost, one can speak to him and force him to answer!"

think of it. . . . Picture it: a man who lives in a palace underground! And he gave a roar.

"Then you want me to go back there?" said the young girl cruelly. "Take care, Raoul; I have told you: I should never return!"

There was an appalling silence between the three of them; the two who spoke and the shadow that listened, behind them.

"Before answering that," said Raoul, at last, speaking very slowly, "I should like to know with what feeling he inspires you, since you do not hate him."

"With horror!" she said. "That is the terrible thing about it. He fills me with horror and I do not hate him. How can I hate him, Raoul? Think of Erik at my feet, in the house on the lake, underground. He accuses himself, he curses himself, he laments his forgiveness! . . . He confesses his faultlessness! He loves me! He lays at my feet an immense and tragic love. . . . He has carried me off for love! . . . He has imprisoned me with him, underground, for love! . . . But he respects me; he craves, he moans, he weeps! . . . And when I stood up, Raoul, and told him that I could only despise him if he did not, then and there, give me my liberty. . . . He offered it. . . . He offered to show me the mysterious road. . . . Only . . . only he rose too. . . . and I was made to remember that, though he was not an angel, nor a ghost, nor a genius, he remained the voice. . . . for he sang. And I listened. . . . and stayed! . . . That night, we did not exchange another word. He sang me to sleep."

"When I woke up, I was alone, lying on a sofa in a simply furnished little bedroom, with an ordinary mahogany bedstead, lit by a lamp standing on the marble top of an old Louis-Philippe chest of drawers. I soon discovered that I was a prisoner and that the only outlet from my room led to a very comfortable bathroom. On returning to the bedroom, I saw on the chest of drawers a note, in red ink, which said, 'My dear Christine, you need have no concern as to your fate. You have no better nor more respectful friend in the world than myself. You are alone, at present, in this house which is yours. I am going out shopping to fetch you all the things that you can need.' I felt sure that I had fallen into the hands of a madman. I ran round my little apartment, looking for a way of escape which I could not find. I upbraided myself for my absurd superstition, which had caused me to fall into the trap. I felt inclined to laugh and to cry at the same time."

"This was the state of mind in which Erik found me. After giving three taps on the wall, he walked in quietly through a door which I had not noticed and which he left open. He had his arms full of boxes and parcels and arranged them on the bed, in a leisurely fashion, while I overwhelmed him with abuse and called upon him to take off his mask, if it covered the face of an honest man. He replied serenely, 'You shall never see Erik's face.' And he reproached me with not having finished dressing at that time of day; he was good enough to tell me that it was two o'clock in the afternoon. He said he would give me half an hour and, while he spoke, would up my watch and set it for me. After which, he asked me to come to the dining-room, where a nice lunch was waiting for us."

"I was very angry, slammed the door in his face and went to the bathroom. . . . When I came out again, feeling greatly refreshed Erik said that he loved me, but that he would never, tell me so, except when I allowed him! And that the rest of the time would be devoted to music."

"What do you mean by the rest of the time?" I asked. "Five days," he said, with decision. I asked him if I should then be free and he said, 'You will be free, Christine, for, when those five days are past, you will have learned not to see me; and then, from time to time, you will come to see your poor Erik!' He pointed to a chair opposite him, at a small table, and I sat down, feeling greatly perturbed. However, I ate a few prawns and the wing of a chicken and drank half a glass of tokay, which he had himself, he told me, brought from the Konigsberg cellars. Erik did not eat or drink. I asked him what his nationality was and if that name of Erik did not point to his Scandinavian origin. He said that he had no name and no country and that he had taken the name of Erik by accident."

"After lunch, he rose and gave me the tips of his fingers, saying he would like to show me over his flat; but I snatched away my hand and gave a cry. What I had touched was cold and, at the same time, bony; and I remembered that his hands smelt of death. 'Oh, forgive me!' he moaned. And he opened a door before me. 'This is my bedroom, if you care to see it. It is rather curious. . . . His manners, his words, his attitude gave me confidence and I went in without hesitation. I felt as if I were entering the room of a dead person. The walls were all hung with black; but, instead of the white trimmings that usually set off that funeral upholstery, there was an enormous staff of music with the notes of the Dies Irae, many times repeated. In the middle of the room was a canopy, from which hung curtains of red brocade stuff, and, under the canopy, an open coffin. 'That is where I sleep,' said Erik. 'One has to get used to everything in life, even to eternity.' The eight upset me so much that I turned away my head."

"Then I saw the keyboard of an organ which filled one whole side of the walls. On the desk was a music-book covered with red notes. I asked leave to look at it and read, 'Don Juan Triumphant.' 'Yes,' he said, 'I compose sometimes. I began that work twenty years ago. When I have finished, I shall take it away with me in that coffin and never wake up again.' 'You must work at it as seldom as you can,' I said. He replied, 'I sometimes work at it for fourteen days and nights together, during which I live on music only, and then I rest for years at a time.' 'Will you play me something out of your Don Juan Triumphant?' I asked, thinking to please him. 'You must never ask me that,' he said, in a gloomy voice. 'I will play you Mozart, if you like, which will only make you weep; but my Don Juan, Christine, burns; and yet he is not struck by fire from heaven.' Thereupon we returned to the drawing-room. I noticed that there was no mirror in the whole apartment. I was going to remark upon this, but Erik had already sat down to the piano. 'He said, 'You see, Christine, there is some music that is so terrible that it consumes all those who approach it. Fortunately, you have not come to that music yet, for you would lose all your pretty coloring and nobody would know you when you returned to Paris. Let us sing something from the opera, Christine. Duet.' He spoke these last words as though he were flinging an insult at me."

"What did you do?"

"I had no time to think about the meaning he put into his words. We at once began the duet in Othello and already the catastrophe was upon us. I sang Desdemona with a despair, a terror which I had never displayed before. As for him, his voice thundered forth his revengeful soul at every note. Love, jealousy, hatred, burst out around us in harrowing cries. Erik's black mask made me think of the natural mask of the Moor of Venice. He was Othello himself. Suddenly, I felt a need to see beneath the mask. I wanted to know the face of the voice, and, with a movement which I was utterly unable to control, swiftly my fingers tore away the mask. Oh, horror, horror, horror!"

Christine stopped, at the thought of the vision that had scared her, while the echoes of the night, which had repeated the name of Erik, now thrice moaned the cry:

"Horror! . . . Horror! . . . Horror!"

Raoul and Christine, clasping each other closely, raised their eyes to the stars that shone in a clear and peaceful sky. Raoul said:

"Strange, Christine, that this calm, soft night should be so full of plaintive sounds. . . . One would think that it was lowed him! And that the rest of the time would be devoted to music."

"When you know the secret, Raoul, your ears, like mine, will be full of lamentations."

She took Raoul's protecting hands in hers and, with a long shiver, continued:

"Yes, if I lived to be a hundred, I should always hear the superhuman cry of grief and rage which he uttered when the terrible sight appeared before my eyes. . . . Raoul, you have seen death's hands, when they have been dried and withered by the centuries, and, perhaps, if you were not the victim of a nightmare, you saw his death's hand at Paris. And then you saw the Death stalker about at the last masked ball. But all those death's heads were motionless and their dumb horror was not alive. But imagine, if you can, the Death's mask suddenly coming to life in order to express, with the four black holes of its eyes, its nose, and its mouth, the extreme anger, the mighty fury of a demon; and not a ray of light from the sockets, for, as I learned later, you cannot see his blazing eyes except in the dark. . . . (To be Continued.)"

REGULAR AFTER EFFECTS OF GRIP THIS YEAR

LEAVES KIDNEYS IN WEAKENED CONDITION.

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are very distressing and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to more serious sickness, such as dreaded Bright's disease.

Local druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, which so many people say soon banishes the grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and being a herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, free by mail, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50c and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.

Don't Be Nervous and Run-Down

New Tonic Tona Vita, Will Positively Restore Your Old Vitality.

Nervousness, depression of spirits, lack of energy, all run down, these are the chief symptoms of nervous debility, the modern affliction caused largely by the rush, hustle, and worry of modern life.

If you are a sufferer from this all-too-common complaint and cannot go to a high priced sanitarium to have rest and diet, build up your system by reading carefully the following statement by C. N. Hunt, Esq., of 602 Sixteenth, Milwaukee, Wis., concerning the remarkable new tonic "Tona Vita" that has made such a great record during the past year. Mr. Hunt says: "For a number of years my wife has been a sufferer from a continuous run down nervous condition and stomach trouble. I took her to a number of doctors, but none seemed to give her any relief. She grew constantly worse and her entire system became affected. She could hardly eat anything and would say the very thought of eating made her sick. She caught one bad cold after another and was always tired and languid. She had bad headaches and attacks of dizziness. I got some Tona Vita a few months ago. My wife began taking the tonic that night and we were pleasantly surprised to notice an improvement after the second day. She is now like a different woman. The nervousness and depression are all gone, and she eats and sleeps better than she has for years. It seems wonderful to note such a change in her. I believe 'Tona Vita' is worth its weight in gold."

If you are debilitated and run down, above all things try "Tona Vita." You will never regret it, as it will build you up like magic. It is the finest preparation now on the market.
